As a parent thinking about homeschooling, your head may be spinning with questions, fears, and more than a little doubt. But don't worry, you are not alone, and there is so much to be excited about!

You are about to embark on an incredibly rewarding journey — providing your child with an education you can believe in while still fulfilling the goals you have for a quality family life.

Everyone approaches homeschooling from a different perspective, but one thing is constant: we all want to do it right, provide a quality education, and enjoy a successful homeschool experience with our children. That is why having a homeschool partner is so important.

As a former homeschool mom myself, I learned a lot of lessons the hard way. The result is knowledge and understanding that has helped thousands of homeschool parents make the most important decision about their child’s education.

Your homeschool journey begins at Bridgeway Academy!

Why Homeschool?
The decision to homeschool is a very personal one and can often be challenging and stressful. We ask ourselves: Why? What are the benefits? How can I make this work? The answers are surprisingly easy.

- You will unlock your child's potential. Homeschooling gives you the key to unlocking the door to your child's unique gifts and talents that are hiding behind. Your child was created for a purpose and homeschooling gives you the opportunity and time to find out what that is and how to nurture its growth.

- You will take back control of your child's education. Traditional schools make all their decisions related to what your child learns, class size, teachers, etc. And it is about the majority of students, not your individual child. Homeschooling puts your child back at the center of their education. And, homeschooling allows you to get behind the wheel of your child's academic future.

- You will strengthen the family bond. Educating your child at home means more time spent as a family. You grow together in both learning and life; you strengthen bonds of love, and you establish a closer relationship.

- You will develop your child's character and values. Homeschooling empowers you to teach your child “how to think” as opposed to “what to think.” And kids that know how to think grow up to become unstoppable adults.

- You will have freedom and flexibility. Homeschooling is all about flexibility and it is built around your schedule and your child's interests, strengths, and abilities. Whether your child is an elite athlete or performer, you live abroad, or you just want the ability to set your own schedule and pace, homeschooling can work for you.
The Many Faces & Families of Homeschooling

Do you have an advanced learner, a child who is struggling, an elite athlete, or a rising star? These are just a few of the many families that have benefited from homeschooling.

Unfettered Academics
When a child has truly exceptional ability and aptitude, a traditional school can be more of a hindrance than a help. With homeschooling, advanced students can select courses that challenge them and give them a jump start on their future.

Special Needs
Students with learning disabilities find that homeschooling customization works. One-on-one attention and specialization will help your child’s confidence and abilities grow!

Missionary Families
For families called to carry God’s word around the world, homeschooling programs allow kids to take an active role in ministry as they prepare for whatever their future holds.

Military Families
Military families make a lot of sacrifices for their country. Homeschooling offers the stability, freedom, and flexibility that military families need. Plus, active military scholarships put the cost of educational freedom within reach.

Rising Stars
Elite athletes and star performers need to fit more into their average day than traditional education will allow. A quality education can be built around the rigors and demands of practice, competitions, rehearsals, auditions, tours, and performances. Homeschooling has helped Olympic Athletes, Moto-Xers, Broadway stars, and more get an education that keeps pace with their busy lives.

International Families
Homeschooling may be a school without walls, but it will cross oceans, borders, and even the international dateline to serve families. All around the world, homeschool students enjoy the benefits of an education with International reach and interaction.
Staying Afloat

As a homeschooler, Kendall finds time to learn and study while still maintaining her rigorous schedule of swim practices, meets, and other extracurricular activities.

“I love Bridgeway because I can get my work done earlier in the day. Every evening I swim for hours, so when I get home, I am tired but glad to know that my homework is already complete.”

Kendall Murphy, Class of 2015
An effective homeschool program will not only respect not only your role as a parent and teacher but also accommodate the unique personality and passions of each child.

"With Bridgeway, I can go back when I don’t quite understand the material. I can watch the lecture again in an instant, and I can contact my advisor when I need her. There’s no classroom full of students to hold me back."

Clark Jones, Class of 2014

Noemi Y. from Holcomb, Kansas

This is my first year of homeschooling, and I must say it is different in an amazing way. I go at my pace, and there is endless help for me whenever I need it. If you are considering homeschooling, then there is one thing I must tell you. Don’t let your kid do it alone. My parents are very active in my homeschooling, and my advisor is there for me all the time. I am having an amazing experience, and I hope more kids get to benefit as I have.
Stretching the Limits

Elizabeth Price traveled to the 2012 Olympic Games as a member of the U.S. Women’s Gymnastics Team.

Balancing the demands of academics and a strenuous training schedule is no small feat. Elizabeth credits the flexibility of Bridgeway Academy for allowing her to pursue her dreams. These dreams appear to be within reach: Elizabeth recently won the Stuttgart World Cup in Germany!

Elizabeth Price, Class of 2014
Flexible: Adapting to your lifestyle

One of the great benefits of homeschooling is the freedom to make your program work for you. With Bridgeway Academy, you keep that freedom and gain all of the benefits that a fully accredited, customized and supportive program can provide.

Time and Pace

Each family has unique scheduling needs. We help you to create flexible daily goals that enable your child to learn at a time and a pace that makes the most sense given the realities of your life. Whether you rely on a daily routine or like to approach each day as a blank page, you determine the months and days for instruction to create a truly customized school year for you and your child.

Parents as Teachers

A successful educational plan recognizes the needs and abilities of both parent and child. Because different parents prefer different levels of involvement, we offer a teaching approach that works for you. From web-driven classes to textbook courses, from independent study to live online interaction, Bridgeway helps find the right fit for your child and the right balance for the parent.

One Size Doesn't Fit All

Bridgeway Academy is not a standardized program, it is YOUR program. Because you set daily goals, you have the flexibility to determine how much time is spent on each subject. If your child is struggling, slow down and dig deeper. If they have mastered a topic, move on. Work at a pace that is comfortable and productive for your child, and see incredible results.

The Subject of Inspiration

Students learn best when they are inspired. With Bridgeway, you have more control over your child's courses and can focus on your child's interests while teaching the five core subjects. We offer a wide range of publishers and approaches to meet necessary requirements, and you can select from our many elective choices to keep your child motivated and engaged.

"As a military family with student athletes, Bridgeway has proven to be the answer to our homeschooling needs. Due to frequent moves, my sixth grader had developed holes in math. Our advisor set him up with the necessary testing to find his weak areas, and then he began a course addressing his needs. He is now feeling confident and excited about math again!" –Christy N. from Augusta, Georgia
Kitsho has set high goals for himself and has every intention of achieving them. In his own words, “I want to be one of the greatest soloists in history.”

Bridgeway Academy worked with Kitsho’s parents to set high but achievable academic goals that empower him to pursue his passion.

Kitsho Hosotani,
Class of 2017
Bridgeway uses a step-by-step customization process that takes into account your child, your home, your priorities, and your overall lifestyle.

Getting to Know Your Child
The process begins with a full assessment of each child. Our assessments are designed to give us a glimpse into your child's personality, learning style, gifts, and abilities as well as their academic strengths and weaknesses.

It's a Family Affair
We know that you know your children better than anyone else. That is why we have in-depth conversations with you after we assess your child. This is a critical step when creating a homeschool program because the success of your child relies on the fit of the program. The information we gather from the family equips us to help you set flexible daily goals that balance the needs of educational progress against the realities of everyday life.

The Journey Begins
Once we understand your child as a student, we begin to implement your plans for your homeschool. Whether you want to be highly engaged or hands-off; whether you want to teach certain subjects together or have children working at different levels, we adjust our approach to best suit your family's distinct needs and desires.

Choosing Curriculum
We make curriculum suggestions based on all the important information we discussed, and we will walk with you all year long, helping you adjust to changing skill levels, schedules, and goals to ensure that your child is on the path to success.
“The best way to find yourself is to lose yourself in the service of others.” – Mahatma Gandhi

Your child’s success in life is not only dependent upon what they learn in the classroom, but also the mark they leave on the world around them.

This is why Bridgeway Academy is so committed to community service. Whether it is through an organization, traveling missions, or participation in Bridgeway's yearly community service initiatives, your child will learn that they are part of a much larger community that is committed to making a difference. Community service builds character, understanding, and strength while making a lasting impact on others — something we've seen change lives.

Bridgeway Academy's goal is for its students to discover why God wishes for us to serve others, and how helping others in need is a fundamental way to serve our faith. Community service initiatives can inspire compassion and empathy for the plight of others, all while building a child's self-esteem and pride in their efforts.

- 2013–2015: Students participated in World Vision's 30 Hour Famine and raised over $20,000 to combat world hunger.
- 2015: Students collected and donated hygiene products, feminine products, and school supplies to aid the Edna Martin Christian Center in Indiana as part of a “Teens giving to Teens” project.
- 2016: Students participated in Acts for Compassion where they raised close to $2,000 to aid outreach projects in Brazil

Bridgeway has had a huge hand in our thought process of serving others. We never thought about the impact that kids can make on others as much as we do now!” – Nancy Bishop, Mother of a Bridgeway Academy Student
Giving Back

The Benitez family embodies this commitment to community service by volunteering at a center that provides meals to underprivileged children in the Payatas community of Manila, Philippines.

Fonsie Benitez, Class of 2022

Grades 1-5

Amazing Growth
The elementary years are a time of incredible growth in a child’s life. This is when they are building the academic, social and emotional foundation for their future and are starting to develop their individuality and independence. It is a remarkable period filled with triumphs and victories, but it can also be a time of struggle and fear. That is why customization in education is so important.

Your child’s academic program should be specifically designed to keep them challenged and involved at all times whether through hands-on curriculum, engaging science experiments, or live online classes. When you build a program that encourages continued exploration, discovery, and hands-on activities, and you base each aspect of the program on how your unique child learns best, you have the perfect fit for your elementary explorer.

Bridgeway strives to make the most of your child’s elementary experience and maximize their potential. Your child will develop a love for learning, self-esteem, and independent thinking all while embarking on the road to success.

The Transitional Years
The middle years are full of transition and development. Your child is growing in body and mind, and with these changes come some significant challenges. They are learning who they are, what they like (and don’t like) and want to make more decisions for themselves. But they still need guidance to be ready to meet the challenges of the future. These are the years to strengthen their independence, critical thinking skills, and build character that will prepare them for adulthood.

Academically, the middle years often reveal struggles and successes. Many times exceptional students jump ahead to higher level studies, while others struggle with grade level concepts and skills. One thing is clear, you need to find that delicate balance to put your in-betweener on the right path, they need both freedom for themselves and careful guidance from you.

Bridgeway’s extensive diagnostic testing provides your child with a program that will celebrate their strengths and interests. We customize the placement of each student to ensure a smooth transition into high school.

Cynthia, Bridgeway Academy Parent
If your child is struggling in school, you know the pain that comes with watching them fail day in and day out. Your child may have lost their love for learning, and you are worrying about their future. And with good reason. Students with learning disabilities are less likely to read at grade level, graduate, and be accepted into a 4-year institution but are almost twice as likely to drop out than average students.

But there is hope. Homeschooling can give your child exactly what they need to get back on track without putting undo pressure on his shoulders. Through Bridgeway’s tailored academic program, your child can grow in areas that need work while recapturing his love and excitement for learning.

And, if your child is struggling with ADHD, Dyslexia, Processing Delays, and Reading Delays, we can provide the reset they may need to get back on track. Our HOPE Package, a combined learning therapy, and academic program, is changing lives. Watch your child gain confidence and renew their love for learning.

“I just want to thank you and let you know how much the program is helping my son. For the first time in his life he is interested in learning, his self esteem has increased ten fold, and he has ambition that I have never seen in him before.”

Victoria, Bridgeway Academy Parent

High School Graduation

Every June, our graduating seniors from all across the United States and around the world gather in eastern Pennsylvania for a commencement ceremony that recognizes their academic achievements and contributions to their communities.

We also take this occasion to encourage students to live with purpose as they enter the next stage of their lives. Because most homeschool students never get the opportunity to attend a graduation ceremony with their peers, the commencement ceremony is one of the distinctions of the Bridgeway Academy experience.

Throughout the school year, graduating seniors connect with each other and build relationships through groups facilitated by Bridgeway. In the spring, many of these students cannot wait to meet each other face-to-face. Students don their caps and gowns and proudly cross the stage to receive their hard-earned diplomas. This is a celebration for students and parents that will be remembered forever.

Did You Know?

67% of homeschooled students are academically prepared for college compared to only 57% of traditionally educated students.

Homeschool graduates earn higher GPA's in college than students coming from traditional schools.

Homeschool graduates score on average in the 70th percentile for math, science, and language arts compared to the 60th percentile for traditional students.
